Philosophical Studies (2005) 125: 431–432 © Springer 2005

CONTENTS • VOLUME 125 • 2005

Volume 125 No. 1

THOMAS D. BONTLY / Conversational Implicature and the Referential Use of Descriptions 1–25

MATTI EKLUND / What Vagueness Consists in 27–60

BEN CAPLAN and BOB BRIGHT / Fusions and Ordinary Physical Objects 61–83

MICHAEL SEAN BRADY / The Value of the Virtues 85–113

MATTHEW H. SLATER / A Contextualist Reply to the Direct Argument 115–137

Volume 125 No. 2

MICHAEL DEVITT / Rigid Application 139–165

BEN CAPLAN / Against Widescopism 167–190

JASON TURNER / Strong and Weak Possibility 191–217

MATTHEW JOHN RELLIHAN / Epistemic Boundedness and the Universality of Thought 219–250

PHILIP ROBBINS / The Myth of Reverse Compositionality 251–275

Volume 125 No. 3

MARC LANGE / A Counterfactual Analysis of the Concepts of Logical Truth and Necessity 277–303

TOMOJI SHOGENJI / Justification by Coherence from Scratch 305–325

RAIMO TUOMELA / We-Intentions Revisited 327–369

CLAIRE HORISK / What Should Deflationism be When it Grows Up? 371–397

MANUEL VARGAS / The Revisionist's Guide to Responsibility 399–429

Volume Contents / Author Index 431–432